The Louisville Post has done good work for the Democratic party this time.

Former Governor A. E. Willson had a fainting spell in Louisville, due to indigestion.

The tobacco pooling act of Kentucky is in the Supreme Court for decision this week.

Several Hopkinsville young men are scheduled to save $10 in income taxes this month.

Vanderbilt's football team was defeated by Virginia, at Charlottesville, Saturday 34-0.

Lexington, Ky., and Nashville, Tenn., have had daily newspaper failures within the last ten days.

Gen. Diaz decided that the Vera Cruz he didn't want to make was one that would land him on Mexican soil.

Tammany must be hard pressed indeed. Rotten eggs were thrown at Sulzer Saturday night, while he was speaking against Tammany.

In spite of all that was proven on Sulzer, public sentiment is with him in his present fight against Tammany, and so are the betting odds.

Betting odds are four to one on Mitchel, fusion Democrat, in New York City. Sulzer is a leader in the fight against McCall, the Tammany Democrat.

Mrs. C. C. Coffin, President of the Housewives League at San Francisco, says husbands will stay at home better if their wives will learn to be good cooks.

The business section of Jackson, Ky., was burned Saturday. The postoffice, a hotel, two churches and 20 residences were burned, entailing a loss of $150,000.

A Chicago actress noted for her wonderful memory has just caught a husband. He'll have to keep a written record of the excuses he gives for being out at night.

The resignation of John C. Duffy as County Attorney took effect Saturday. Unless he is elected representative today, he will probably be re-appointed for the rest of the year.

The Nashville Democrat, started Sept. 20, 1911, suspended publication Nov. 2, after a losing experience of little more than two years. The plant was purchased for $30,000, about half its value, by the Tennesseean, owned by Senator Luke Lea, which will fill out its unexpired subscription. This leaves the Tennesseean the only morning paper in Nashville.

Sara A. Padden, an actress born in the Stockyards district of Chicago, has just married Geo. C. Sackett, a theatrical man. Miss Padden was remarkable for her wonderful memory. She first attracted attention through her ability to learn lines quickly. As an understudy she would learn the lines of one scene while standing in the "wings" of a theater, and between acts learn the lines of succeeding scenes. This gave her the nickname of "Paddy the Line Eater."

Here's the proposition in a nutshell: If your net income, not including an official salary, is $5,000 a year, you owe the government, if you are a married man $10 and if you are unmarried $20 income tax. And the government holds the man who pays you the money responsible for the tax as a withholding agent. Pungle up boys, they've got you. Let's see, here in Hopkinsville, we have the following list of prosperous citizens who are caught—but on second thought we will not name them.

TWO PRETTY AIR FLIGHTS

Aviation Meet Closed Sunday Afternoon By DeLloyd Thompson.

SECOND TRIP ONE-HALF MILE

Sabbath Desecration Plea is Raised by More Strict Observers.

Aviator DeLloyd Thompson made two ascensions from the fair grounds Sunday afternoon. In the first flight he left the earth at a quarter past 3 o'clock and was up in the air eight minutes. It was a beautiful flight but no attempt was made at thrills.

The second ascension was prettier than the first. He kept climbing up and up and reached an altitude of over half a mile, the measuring apparatus registering 3,200 feet.

Mr. Thompson did not attempt the upside-down act, but his dips and spirals were beautiful. When he came down he did it as gracefully as a bird alighting in a tree.

The ascensions were witnessed by probably 2,000 people, most of them being on the outside of the fair grounds and all places where a good view could be obtained of the airship as it arose were dotted with people, old and young, white and black. If Mr. Thompson could have pocketed a quarter for everybody who saw his ascensions he would be several hundred dollars on toward the sum he covets before retiring from the aviation field.

Word that the ascension would be made Sunday afternoon was circulated Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning. Some people looked upon it as a desecration of the Sabbath and, we learn, that some of the more rigid observers made an attempt to shut Mr. Thompson off some time in the afternoon. The authority of the President of the Fair Company was invoked, it is said, but his order not to allow the aviator to make his flights was secured too late.

As the grounds are outside the city limits the city authorities had no jurisdiction. An order from County Judge Knight would have nipped the exhibition in the bud, but he was twenty miles from the city Saturday beating about the bushes in his campaign and had a breakdown at night, which caused him to get home late Sunday morning and after taking a sleep Sunday afternoon he went out for a drive and didn't get home until after the ascensions had been made. So all protests went by default and Mr. Thompson took in enough shekels to help some toward paying his expenses for the five days he was here.

Many people who observe the Sabbath say that running a motor that takes a man for a ride in the air is no more a desecration than the one who runs his motor car for a trip over the country. The only difference being that the aviator flies for pay and the automobilist rides for pleasure, but often in a hired machine.

Helped Save Two.

Mrs. John Lind, wife of the American envoy, on leaving Mexico, concealed two fugitive members of the chamber of deputies, in her stateroom on the Morro Castle, until they left Mexican waters. She remained outside while the search was in progress. They are now in New York.

DOING NO TALKING

The Mexican Situation Has Undergone No Change Whatever.

PRES. HUERTA THE HITCH

Policy of Silence and Waiting Is Being Observed at Washington.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Though every official of the United States government has been cautioned to maintain absolute silence while the plans of the Washington administration for solving the Mexican problem are worked out, it became known from many well informed sources today that a supreme effort is being made to bring about Huerta's retirement from the provisional presidency.

Should Huerta retire in favor of another there is a possibility that the United States may attempt to compose the situation through his successor.

AT MURRAY NEXT

Judge Hanbery Will Take a Week's Needed Rest.

Every case on the docket that was scheduled to be disposed of during the six weeks' term of Circuit Court was handled before Judge Hanbery formally adjourned for the term last Saturday. The Judge had a heavy docket to begin with when the court convened, but with his characteristic energy and economy of time he managed to keep up his record, harder than usual to do on account of the hot political campaign brought to a close Saturday night. Judge Hanbery hasn't been well for several days and ought to have taken to his room for a season, but he says he has never called on the Governor to name a man to assist him and will not as long as he is able to get about.

He will vote today early and rest up before beginning court at Murray for a three weeks' term. After holding court at Murray he will go to Eddyville for a two weeks' term, and will then have holiday until the first week in January. He will hand down several decisions, Wednesday carried over, the library case being one of them.

BUGGY SMASHED

By Horse Being Frightened At Noise of Aeroplane.

While watching the aeroplane Wednesday afternoon, Dr. T. D. Rudd, Mrs. Rudd and their seven-year-old son, Arthur, almost miraculously escaped injury when the horse reared and fell backwards on the buggy, in which they were seated. The aeroplane was directly over their heads near the fair grounds and the horse became frightened at the noise of the engine. The dash board was broken, one wheel collapsed, both shafts were broken and several spokes in another wheel were broken. Nobody was hurt and even the horse was not injured.

Meeting at Locust Grove.

Colored Mixup In South Christian and Fatal Shooting Saturday Night.

ON JOHN GARNETT FARM.

Courtney Henry Charged With The Murder of Sylvia Henry.

A negro woman named Sylvia Henry was shot and killed at John W. Garnett's farm, on the Clarks-ville pike, Saturday night. The killing was done, it is said, by Courtney Henry and the details are very meagre. It is said the woman was Henry's wife but had left him. A woman was charged with killing a negro man named Will Radford last spring in the same room.

Deputy Sheriff Chilton went to the scene Sunday night to arrest Henry, but failed to find him.

NUMBER THIRTEEN

Figured Somewhat in a Runaway Saturday.

The horse attached to Walker & Overby's delivery wagon became frightened Friday, near McLean College and ran off. He dashed down Ninth street and ran for several squares, turning into Thirteenth street until he reached Main. He then started North and in front of the home of S. Y. Trimble the wagon became uncoupled, which made him run all the harder, the wagon running into one of the trees in front of Mr. Trimble's residence. The horse was stopped on Main street, near Seventh. The young man in the wagon had rather a thrilling experience, but received no injuries. It was a long wild run, but not a thing broken, though the horse was somewhat bruised and the total loss was estimated at about 13 cents and the animal had made a record of running 13 squares.

MATRIMONIAL MARKET

For November Opens Up With a Rush.

From present indications there will be much doing in the matrimonial line during this month. Six or eight marriages are already announced. On November 1st license was issued for the marriage of Miss Nellie Donnelly and Mr. Eckley Goode. Yesterday licenses were issued for the union of Miss Margaret E. Simpson and Mr. Sherman Boyd and Miss Ella Sivley and Mr. J. W. Warfield.

What's In a Name.

The County Clerk of Todd is Gill and the name of the lady, whose name he refused to certify as a candidate for superintendent of schools, is Gillis, just two letters longer. The Republican candidate for the same office in this county, resigned his position in the High School to make the race. The Democratic candidate resigned as one of the faculty of McLean college to do the same thing. If the former is defeated he will take his place again, and if the latter is defeated the school board could not do better than to place him on the roll of teachers.

CITY HAS FULL TREASURY

Collector Richards Broke All Records For October Collections.

$54,000 WAS TAKEN IN.

Money To Burn But Court Injunction Says It Cannot Be Spent.

Collector John W. Richards during the month of October collected $54,000 of city taxes for 1913, about $16,000 of it last Saturday. There are about $23,000 of short term notes in the bank to be taken up at once and the city's liabilities will then be only $71,500 of bonds not due.

The decision in Circuit Court enjoining the city from making a contract for street improvements because $66,000 of the bonds were issued without a vote of the people and are classed as current debts and counting these as debts to be paid the city had only $24,000 to spend legally this year and will be similarly handicapped next year, if the decision stands in the higher court.

The contracts for water and street lights expire Nov. 16 and cannot be renewed, at least until after Jan. 1st. No money can be spent except for actual operating expenses of the city government, although the city will in a few days have a big cash balance in the Treasury.

ATTEMPTED HOLD-UP

Janitor of Court House Put Three Men to Flight.

Saturday night George Dabney, the colored janitor of the court house, saved himself from a supposed flogging by drawing his gun and showing fight when three men rushed out of an alley in front of the West Side public school building. George was on his way home about 9:30 and had reached the point named when the three men presented themselves and told him to hold his hands up. Dabney, who is a Democrat, didn't obey orders but drew his gun from his pocket, when the men, whom it is believed intended giving him a beating, took to their heels and Dabney opened fire upon them, emptying every chamber of his pistol. The night police, hearing the shots, ran out West Seventh street and found Dabney standing in the street with his empty pistol in his hand.

Hopkinsville Won.

Hopkinsville High School defeated Princeton High School at Princeton Saturday, 27 to 13. The game was hotly contested and two referees were used before the game was ended. Breathitt, Moss and Moseley starred for Hopkinsville. The Princeton fans crowded upon the field and there was much disorder and unfairness. Yesterday the Hopkinsville Athletic Association severed all connection with Princeton in athletics.

Another Wholesale House.

The S. Hartman Distilling Co. has bought out the saloon business of W. M. Jones, on Sixth street, and will on Nov. 7 apply to the council for a wholesale liquor license at the same stand.

Commonwealth's Attorney Sam Dixon and J. L. Dorsey, an attorney for the Imperial Tobacco Co., had an exchange of blows on the streets in Henderson Friday. Neither suffered any injury worth mentioning. They fought over a case in court.

LOOKS GOOD FOR ROOSTER

Reports From All Over the County Presage Big Victory.

FINE SPEAKING YESTERDAY

Campaign Closed With a Big Rally Last Night At Court House.

Everything looks rosy for Democratic victory today, all along the line. People were in town yesterday from all parts of the county and almost without exception the Democrats are jubilant and promise to carry their districts by increased majorities over 1909. On the other hand the Republicans are looking blue and are already crying "fraud" and claiming that the Democrats are preparing to spend money for votes.

The final rallies at several precincts Saturday were all well attended and the woods were shelled by practically all of the orators.

Yesterday afternoon Young Jim Breathitt was put forward to answer the speeches of his father, Judge Jim, and Messrs. Fowler and Feland. When the Kentuckian went to press, he was doing it to a queen's taste. Last night the last rally was held at the court house and there were a number of rousing speeches made by the Democratic candidates and others. It was a rouser and when this paper reaches the readers the ballots will be falling one by one into the 32 big ballot boxes that will tell the tale at four o'clock this afternoon.

Indications point to a sweeping Democratic victory in the county and city.

In the seven wards of the city there are only four contests and the Democrat in each of the wards is expected to win over the Independent by a decisive majority.

The seven voting places in the city are as follows:

No. 1 at Court House, No. 2 at West's Warehouse on Campbell St., No. 3 at Moayon Hall, No. 4 at Dabney's Warehouse, No. 5 at Mabry's Stable, No. 6 in R. E. Cooper's building, No. 7 at Reeder's Store.

The polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 8 p. m. In the city, voters must show their registration certificates and cannot vote without them. If one has been lost a duplicate can be obtained from the County Clerk by making affidavit and paying a fee of 50 cents.

The weather prediction for today is "cloudy and warmer."

FELL DOWN

Flight of 25 Steps and Knocked Unconscious.

Robert Horton, a colored boy, between 11 and 12 years of age, had a fall yesterday morning that came near costing him his life. He had reached the top of the stairway that leads to the old quarters of the Kentuckian office, now partly occupied by Miss Kennedy, when he tripped and fell and rolled down the steps to the concrete sidewalk. His head struck the concrete walk with such force that he was knocked unconscious. He was lifted up and carried upstairs and Miss Kennedy called a physician. After being treated he was sent to his home in a carriage.

PRECIOUS STONES IN DEMAND

From Earliest Times They Have Been Accorded High Esteem and Admiration.

In robberies now being reported from day to day there is reminder of expenditures that defy the high cost of living, and of a trade that prospers however others may languish. As civilization grows more complex and populations multiply, new sources of precious stones are sought out and fresh values utilized. To the old vocabulary unfamiliar names are being added. We know all about sapphires, rubies and emeralds, about the beryl, the garnet, the topaz, the chrysoprase and the tourmaline. How many of us could identify the californite, the vesuvianite, the benetite, or pick out from other gems genuine bits of viriscite, amatrice, uhlite and chlorutahlite? Yet the use of all these for decorative purposes is on the increase; in the United States alone it has reached an output value of over half a million dollars.

Turn to the most ancient of precious stones, the diamond. Legend assures us that it was a power to conjure with in the days of the Mahabarata, 5,000 years ago; it flashed out from the breastplate of the Jewish high priest in biblical times. Long before the mines of Golconda turned it out to be cut and polished for the use of Indian potentates the campaigns of Alexander the Great had brought knowledge of it to Europe, and diamonds were already prized by the Romans in the first century of the Christian era. But they were not fairly in use until after the fourteenth. The fuller modern supply began with the discoveries in Brazil 300 years later, and was extended by the discoveries in Australia, Borneo, Java, Singapore and Siam. It culminated toward the later part of the nineteenth century in the epoch-making operations of the African mines, which have already created a new civilization and helped to build up a new empire south of the equator.

LINKING THE CONTINENTS.

Communication direct by wireless between America and Asia is now an accomplished fact, the United States army signal corps station at Nome, Alaska, having been in nightly communication since July 20 with the Russian station at Anadyr, Siberia, 500 miles west of Nome. For the last six months the signal corps operators at Nome have been trying, under orders from Washington, to establish communication with the Russian stations. A diplomatic agreement will have to be reached before the Nome station could cooperate with Russia for the commercial use of the government-owned station in Alaska.

Liked Their Vlands Sweet.

Pineapple chunks and roast beef as a dinner dish sounds like a return to the habits of the forefathers, who always wanted something sweet with their meat. Sir Walter Besant tells how in Tudor days most people's teeth were black on account of their diet. Honey was poured lavishly over the beef and sugar employed to give filip to the poultry, and even the wine had to be much sweetened to please the palate of the medieval gourmet. To this day Englishmen add current jelly to mutton, apple sauce to pork, and in Germany stewed pears form "the usual trimming" of chicken.

Nothing Really Seems New.

Discovery of a prehistoric Turkish bath in Ireland suggests again the thought that most of the things about which modern civilization boasts are ancient. An automatic machine was in use to supply sacrificial water in an ancient Greek temple. Queen Marie Theresa had an elevator in her house at Luxembourg at least as early as 1777, and an omnibus was running in Paris in 1662. In 1667 Robert Hooke conveyed sounds to a distance by distended wire—telephoned, in fact.

WOMAN CONSIDERED A PRIZE

Servian Wives Have Distinct Value, and Rivalry for Their Hands Is Keen.

W. Y. Morgan, in a travel letter to the Hutchinson News, writes from Belgrade: "Leap year with its incidental advantages is not needed in Servia. A girl here does not take a dowry but is considered a prize to be paid for. Marriages are not made for love but because the man needs help. It is no trick at all for a woman to get married if she is stout and healthy, and in fact she will be snapped up first and ahead of a pretty girl by the wise Servian father who selects the helpmate for his son. On a little farm there is no use for machinery and no call for hired hands. The family does all the work and does not have to strain its backs very much in the doing. Where the wants are little the supplying of them is not difficult. The Servian gents have time for war and the women for embroidery. All are happy and comfortable and do not worry about pure food laws and individual drinking cups. They never have appendicitis or operations and they live more contentedly and longer than many who do."—Kansas City Star.

WORLD IS AMERICAN MARKET

Products of the United States to Be Found in Every Country of the Earth.

Wanted, the name of a country in which you cannot hear the buzz of an American sewing machine or hear the click of an American typewriter. You might as easily find one as name the land where the soil has not yet felt the pressure of the American automobile. Last year we sent aeroplanes to Japan, Australia, Brazil, France, Germany, Russia and other countries. As for our plows, they turn up the brown earth in no fewer than 80 countries and bring us in a trifle of $7,000,000, while the return we derive from mowers and reapers is something like $17,000,000. If the god Pan should be discovered in a sequestered glade of Thessaly he would probably be brandishing a reaping hook from some city in the middle west and, if his godship has taken to the use of breakfast food, he doubtless helps in the payment of the $2,000,000 which we are receiving annually for confections of this kind. If you go by railroad, whether you travel in Peru or Africa, you journey in American cars.

UP TO LITTLE HAROLD.

Little Susie—Let's play house-keeping. You be the papa and I'll be the mamma.

Little Harold—Aw, what's the use. We won't get started good before you'll commence crying.

Little Susie—No, I won't. Just you play nice, Harold, and don't bang the table and slam the doors.

POOR PRINCE.

"Lived in the Latin Quarter, eh? You say you had a prince in your rooms one day?"

"Yes."

"And how did you happen to receive a visit from royalty?"

"He came in there to avoid his landlord."—Washington Herald.

LIBERAL CONTRIBUTION.

Visiting Philanthropist—Good morning, madame; I am collecting for the Drunkards' home.

Mrs. Patrick—Sure, I'm glad of it, sor—if you come around tonight you can have my husband.—Successful Farming.

UP AND DOWN.

"I'm going to get married soon and settle down," remarked young Debtleigh.

"All very well," replied his tailor, "but I'm far more interested in learning when you're going to settle up!"

THE SENSATION.

Knicker—These are said to be times of great moral uplift.

Bocker—I know it; but I don't like to ride in an elevator all the time.—Judge.

NOTHING NEW.

"The vacuum system seems now to be applied to everything."

"Quite so. I know a number of people who even think with it."

HIS METHOD.

"How is it that author has acquired such a bubbling style?"

"I don't know; but I guess he uses a fountain pen."

YOUR KIDNEYS

Hopkinsville Residents Must Learn The Importance of Keeping Them Well.

Perfect health means that every organ of the body is performing its functions properly.

Perfect health cannot be enjoyed if the kidneys are weak and disordered.

Thousands testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have a reviving action on weak kidneys.

What this remedy has done in so many cases of this kind is the best proof of its merits.

Read the following. It's testimony gratefully given an Earlington resident.

J. W. Almon, Earlington, Ky., says: "My kidneys were weak and I had to get up at night to pass the kidney secretions. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I began taking them. They relieved me in a short time. One box completely cured me. I have never been bothered with kidney trouble since."

Uncle Sam's Cash.

New York, Oct. 31.—About 84 tons of gold in the United States sub-treasury on Wall street, guarded night and day by a small army of watchmen and a battery of machine guns is being counted by nine men from the treasury department. Between 2,500 and 3,000 tons of silver also being counted, as well as several million dollars in bills and a few tons of nickels and coppers.

The task was begun Tuesday and will keep nine skilled men busy for three weeks. At the end of that time they are expected to inform Martin Vogle, assistant United States treasurer, that he has $171,103,280 12 of government funds in his keeping.

Many questions have been submitted to officials here which will be taken up by the conference.

DEFIANCE FROM A DISTANCE

Discomfited Bully Certainly Gave His Adversary What Might Be Called Fair and Proper Warning.

Many of the best Pennsylvania stories come from the lumber camps. This bit of rough-and-ready history was told in a hotel lobby by a visitor to Philadelphia from the great West Branch valley of the Susquehanna:

"Paddy Wood was the porter at the Glinricky house in my town. He was a mark for mischievous boys who found that he would chase them if properly baited. He had a board about five feet long which he promised to use on his tormentors, thus adding to the spice of danger to the sport.

"One summer evening Paddy Wood sat on a bench in front of the tavern, his board leaning within easy reach against the building. Paddy Plank, a swaggering woodsman, with numerous raw or 'natural' whiskies under his belt, hove in sight. He stopped in the road, fumbled for his woodstock pipe for several minutes and was a longer time lighting it. The woodstock pipe was a cavalier affair usually smoked with the bowl turned down by men who affected bravado. It was not the pipe of peace, however, for the moment Paddy Plank's orbs sighted Paddy Wood he discovered that his system craved a little Kilkenny fun and he began to hand Paddy Wood some choice compliments, such as are usually set afloat when one is looking for trouble.

"Paddy Wood deliberately arose from the bench, picked up his board and smote Paddy Plank on the jaw, knocking his pipe across the lot, the sparks from which described an arc of fire like a rocket.

"Surprised at the speed of Paddy Wood's response—he didn't expect it by wire—and seeing his disadvantage, he started to run, with Paddy Wood trying to lift him off his feet with every jump.

"As soon as he reached a safe distance from his pursuer, Paddy Plank turned around and uttered this piece of defiance:

"Kape away from me! Kape away from me! or you will have your heart's blood on me hands!"

Brilliant Composer.

There are so many musical luminaries of the name of Strauss—living, dead, and moribund—that it is small wonder that the Frohman announcement of a new Strauss operetta created confused inferences. The operetta bought by Mr. Frohman is by Oscar Strauss—the Austrian composer of "The Waltz Dream," and "The Chocolate Soldier"—who, now in his forty-third year, is composing as brilliantly and as copiously as ever.

Cricket of English Birth.
Cricket is the national game of Englishmen, and seems always to have been played in Britain. The first mention of it is found in a manuscript of the thirteenth century. The name comes from the Saxon "cric" or "cryc," a crooked stick—an obvious reference to the bat with which it is played. Wherever the English have colonized the game is played, and in many of the British possessions it has become popular with the natives, notably in New Zealand.

Thanksgiving next, and then Xmas.

Regular morning and evening services at the First Presbyterian church next Sunday. Rev. E. E. Gabbard will occupy the pulpit.

Waller & Trice expect to move in to their new quarters, Eighth and Main streets, this month.

The sermon addressed to men and boys by Evangelist Dew at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon was heard by a full house and with deep interest.

Rev. Geo. C. Abbott, who attended the triennial convention of the Episcopal church in New York, was asked yesterday what was the final action of the convention on the proposition to change the name of the church to the Catholic Church of America. He laughed and said it was a dead question before the assembling of the convention.

Grape Growers Squeezed.

The Chicago Record-Herald says grape growers of Berrien county, Mich., were taken in by wholesale men who contracted in advance for their output at 9 to 12 cents a basket when the market price later was 20 cents owing to the shortness of the crop. In addition, the contract put growers at the mercy of the buyer in the matter of delivery, the picking being delayed in many cases until the grapes were too ripe. The charge is made that the buyers deliberately shortened the crop and put the price up to 35 cents and left many growers with a surplus of baskets on hand for which they had to pay 5 cents each.

Double Suicide.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 3.—A double suicide was brought to light when the decomposed bodies of James F. Bly, an 18 year old medical student of Philadelphia and his 19-year-old bride were found in the woods near Northfield. Bullet wounds in the temples of each, a revolver containing two empty chambers lying between them and a note signed by both convinced the police that the couple ended their lives as a result of a suicide pact.

The note, which was in the young man's handwriting, read:

"Death is the easiest way out. Rose will kill herself first and I will follow."

Because sixty per cent of all West Point applicants have failed during the last three years, notwithstanding that many were high school graduates, Representative Sharp of Ohio called on Secretary Garrison today to recommend modification of examinations or to have the government conduct a preparatory course.

WRITING THAT LETTER HOME

Duty That Daughter Should Never Neglect, Is the Assertion Made by Newspaper.

When a daughter leaves home one thing she should never neglect, one thing there is with which no duty or pleasure should interfere. It is the letter to mother. It is not enough that she send a postal card: "Very busy. Will write soon." Mother's letter should be a budget of daily, even hourly, happenings. It should be as far as possible a reflection of every thought and action in the new surroundings.

Mother's box of letters! What a treasure house of love! How she guards it! How she dreams over it and cries over it!

It is hard for a mother to let her daughter leave the home nest, so critical a moment it is in the latter's life. The daughter should strive to make the wrench less cruel. There are hours at home after she has gone that are happy or dismal according to whether she is faithful or careless in mother thought.

Never delay writing the letter home. It is the call supreme. Do all that you can to please your beloved and devoted mother. None will ever be so appreciative, so sympathetic, so forgiving, so understanding. No heart will ever beat more true.—Chicago Tribune.

PROOF TO THE CONTRARY

"Mostly wimmen allus asks me if I'm looking fer work—" "Wot of it?" "An' yet dey sez wimmen ain't got no sense of humor!"

GENIUS AND HAIR.

Some inquiring creature has discovered that the way to tell genius is by the hair. True genius, declares this investigator, is marked by thick, curly, luxuriant hair, brown or black in color, which never shows any tendency to get gray before its time.

According to this classification, Samson and Absalom were the prize packages of intellect in ancient Israel, and Julius Caesar was little better than an idiot. The records do not seem to bear out this view, but when facts and fads contradict each other let facts perish.

WEBSTER'S THANKSGIVING.

For all the happiness of life, which has been so far exceedingly happy, I desire to render the most devout thanks to Almighty God. I thank him for existence; for the pleasure and glory of rational being; for an immortal nature, and for all the gratifications, the joys and the means of improvement which has blessed my earthly life; for the time and the country in which I have lived; and for those objects of love and affection whose being has been entwined with my own.—Daniel Webster's Notebook.

IN THE STONE AGE.

"Here are sign words, professor, on the wall of this cave." "So I see." "They tell, no doubt, a tale of great historical value." "Not exactly. This is just the lease of the cave. Says the tenant must pay forty clam shells per month in advance and isn't allowed to keep dinosaurs, pterodactyls or saber-toothed tigers."

ITS CLAIM TO BEAUTY.

Ella—What a beautiful moon. Stella—It doesn't look so to me. Ella—You don't seem to realize that the man in it is the only one in sight.

SO DIFFERENT.

Gerald—The elephant is a peculiar animal. Geraldine—That's so; he hasn't any collection of hotel labels on his trunk.

SHOWING WARREN THE POINT

Little Lad's Effective Lesson in the Necessity for Employing Punctuation Marks.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Warren, as he came in from school one day, "I wish we didn't have to learn so much about periods and commas and semicolons and such things. I hate them!"

Mamma laid down her sewing and said, "Why do you hate them, Warren?"

"Why, it's so hard to remember when to use them, and besides I don't think they are of much use. I don't see why we couldn't write sentences without putting in any punctuation marks."

Mamma smiled and then rising from her chair she went over to the desk and got out a piece of paper and a pencil. Then she wrote: "The little turkey strutted about the yard and ate corn half an hour after his head was cut off."

"Why, mummy, how funny!" exclaimed Warren when he had read it, "how could a turkey walk around eating corn without any head?"

"He couldn't," replied mamma, "and yet I have written just what I intended to write. I have, however, left out all punctuation marks."

Then she bent down and punctuated the sentence. It then read: "The little turkey strutted about the yard and ate corn; half an hour after, his head was cut off."

"Oh, I see," cried Warren, and then and there he resolved to learn all that he could about punctuation marks.—Woman's World.

DOG TUGS AT BABY CARRIAGE

After It's Out of Water He Jumps Around Until Satisfied That It's Empty.

Edwin Main Post relates an incident which demonstrated the remarkable intelligence of one of his Airedale terriers. It will be remembered that Mayor Gaynor recently exhibited an Airedale of Mr. Post's breeding. The dog in question is Empost Captain Andrew, known as Cappie, and beloved and petted by every one, but very fond of small children.

Cappie is very fond of taking a swim in a large pond near Mr. Post's house in Babylon, L. I., and the other day went in from the north side of the pond for the first time. When about 100 yards from the shore he suddenly began to bark, paw the water and dive under. He kept this up for so long a time, refusing to obey orders to come out, that Mr. Post finally had to go out to him. The dog was found trying to pull out of the mud a baby carriage. When it was taken out on the bank, the dog made a careful inspection of it, nosing it all over, and when he evidently was satisfied there was no baby in it he shook the water off his body and led the way home.

"Some people may say this was only instinct," said Mr. Post, "but I believe that this action of my dog showed an intelligence prompted by a reasoning power."

DISAPPOINTED.

"I shall not see that interviewer again," said the actress. "Why not?" inquired the press agent.

"He kept talking about art and never said a word concerning my dog, my diamonds or my previous husband."—Washington Star.

TRY TO.

"I am afraid that actors sometimes deceive us about the salaries they get."

"No," replied the keen observer. "They may think they do, but they don't."

NATURAL RESULT.

"That was a very lame argument." "Of course, when it hadn't a leg to stand on."

CRUEL INSINUATION.

"Mind cures are not always successful."

"Of course not. They've got to have something to work on."

HOW HE TRAVELS.

Footlights—Do you consider Hamm travels on the square? Miss Su Brette—No; he's traveling on one of the circuits now.

A LAMB.

"Why are you so sore on that eminent millionaire? He has done some good things."

"I was one of them."

DOGS ON BASEBALL FIELDS

Writer Throws Out Suggestion for Which Apparently He Desires No Pecuniary Reward.

A funny case of interest to the fans at large was decided recently out in the middle west. According to the story the Terre Haute club of the Central league protested a game played late in June in Fort Wayne with the local team, because a Great Dane dog chased Manager Anderson as he was attempting to field a ball, and forced him to climb a fence. Fort Wayne won the contest, and though the members of that ball club protested that the canine was not on their payroll, the protest was filed. After due deliberation President Heilbroner of the Central league turned down the protest, ruling that the dog did not cause the loss of the game. If it were a sure thing that this decision would hold throughout the country it might furnish a new line of endeavor for some of our foxy little managers in the major leagues. Large, husky, able-bodied dogs might be trained, upon signal, to give chase to visiting players attempting to recover the ball after long hits and force them to seek safety in the bleachers or over the center field fences. The animals could be taken upon the fields under the plea that they were "mascots," and kept on the players' benches until such times as it was decided necessary to call upon them for service.—Leslie's Weekly.

MUSTACHES OF ALL SORTS

Wide Variety Noted in That Particular Branch of Man's Facial "Adornment."

A mustache is what you choose to make it. Almost every man has the raw materials at his command, and he can cut them or cuddle them as he sees fit. Some men beat their mustaches savagely back into their upper lips, refusing them growth, shave them remorselessly once or twice a day and never let a hair of them see the light of day.

Other men coax and cajole their mustaches to emerge, pet them, pamper them, protect them and view the resultant hirsute effects in the light of artistic achievements.

But not all mustaches are artistic. Some are stubby and some are scraggly and some are simply unmowed hair. Now and again we encounter a work of superior excellence, an accomplishment in mustache making, a feat in facial foliage.—Saturday Evening Post.

ENERGY ALWAYS PRESENT.

Study of the blood furnished the clew to Julius Robert Mayer for his discovery of that fundamental law of physics, the law of conservation of energy. Mayer observed, while traveling as a ship's surgeon in the tropics, that the venous blood of his patients (in the days when blood letting was still in general vogue) was appreciably brighter in color than in ordinary practice in the temperate zone. From this he concluded that there was a definite relation between the chemical action going on in the blood and the amount of work or heat furnished by the body, and thus, following up his argument point by point, he was finally led to the conclusion that the total amount of energy of a given system is constant, that energy can neither be created nor destroyed, but only converted from one form into another.

PERHAPS.

"Are eyes the windows of the soul?" "Of course they are." "Is that the reason they so often have a glassy stare?"

DON'T REACH THAT FAR.

Bacon—The United States makes enough paper money each year to reach twice around the world. Egbert—That's queer. Very little of it reaches me.

THE RESULT.

"He made his money in dried apples." "Maybe that is why he is so swelled up."

A MISUNDERSTANDING.

"That fellow is no judge of fowls." "Why he has the best chicken farm in the county."

RATHER MIXED.

"How did they make out with that play's run?" "It was a walkover."

Income Tax Rules.

The regulations for the collection of the normal income tax of 1 per cent on incomes of $3,000 and $4,000 (of married persons) have been issued and are very complicated. In most instances the tax must be paid "at the source." In other words it must be deducted from amounts paid by the "withholding agent" making the payment. Income of an individual which is not fixed or certain and payable at stated periods or is indefinite or irregular as to the amount of time of accrual, shall not be withheld at the source, but shall be returned and the tax shall be paid thereon by the individual.

Income derived from the following professions and vocations come under this head: Farmers, merchants, agents compensated on the commission basis, lawyers, doctors, authors, inventors, and other professional persons. Such person shall make personal return of all their income, provided their total income from all sources exceeds $3,000.

PAID FOR WITH HUMAN LIFE

Man's Many Conquests in Various Fields of Struggle Have Always Been Costly.

It would be difficult to decide in what field of struggle the indomitable soul of man finds its freest expression of the courage that is in it. In every age the spirit of adventure has spurred men to the point of holding life very lightly, where high achievement was possible. In the experimental stage of the submarine and the aeroplane hundreds of lives have been sacrificed; but every loss has brought success one step nearer than before. And the world has always been willing to pay for its triumphs. In aviation hundreds have perished in attempts at long-distance flight, and now we have the news of the wonderful achievement of Brindejonc De Moulinais, a French aeronaut who, on July 2, completed an aerial journey of 3,100 miles, from Paris to St. Petersburg and back, being the longest voyage thus far recorded. This conqueror of the air is a mere lad of twenty-one. Part of the time he was traveling at 110 miles an hour, and for a short distance he attained a speed of 140 miles per hour. Travelling at a great height over the Baltic sea, he was seriously confused by mistaking a group of islands for dancing and vanishing clouds, but his nerve of steel kept him from losing his head, which doubtless is the reason why so many aeronauts suddenly "go to pieces" and perish. His wonderful adventure will doubtless stimulate others to still more daring attempts, involving new sacrifice of lives laid on the altar of aerial conquest.

PITY WASTED ON THE TOAD

Philosopher Advances Many Reasons Why Small Creature is Not in Need of Sympathy.

"I have lately read several bits of good writing in defense of the toad," calmly stated Stanley Livingston Muttshaw, the amateur philosopher. "But while I do not wish to appear hypercritical, or anything of the kind, I beg to say that His Honor the Toad, as I see him, needs little defense. By summer visitors from the city strolling along the gooseberry vines he is often mistaken for a well-filled pocketbook, and it is certainly quite a nice thing to look like ready money. The toad cannot sing and never attempts to, which is greatly to his credit. He worries not at all about next winter's gas shortage, but retires in the fall into the bosom of a sand bank and there lies as dormant as a doormat while the wild wyndes blow and the driven shows drive. Indeed, you can bury him in the middle of a solid rock in the time of Pharaoh and crack him out on the Fourth of July, 1914, and find him in perfect order, physically and mentally. He is built on the architectural style of the average alderman, than whom there is nobody better qualified to take care of himself in emergencies; and he goes the politician one better, for while they both run largely to abdomen, the toad merely sits meditatively and rests his stomach on the ground whenever it becomes a wearisome burden, and the alderman can't. To the thoughtful toad would seem to be more an object for envy than pity."—Kansas City Star.

"Daisy" Well Named.

The Latin name of the daisy comes from a word meaning "pretty," and all will agree that it is well named. Our English word daisy is really "day's eye," and that is what it was called many hundred years ago.

Like the dandelion, each of its flowers is made up of a number of little ones, the tiny golden "disk flowers" in the center and the long white "ray flowers" around them. Daisies growing on the prairies of Kentucky to Texas have violet or purple rays.

To this same big family or "order" belong the asters, robin's plantain, goldenrod, dahlia, bonaset and many other common but beautiful wild flowers which we all know so well.

If we look at the flowers in the yellow center of a daisy through a microscope we shall find that each is shaped like a little bell and has pointed teeth on its edge.

He Should Worry.

At least one Detroitter is possessed of a philosophical turn of mind that should send him through life content with his lot, remarks the Free Press of that city. Recently he had the misfortune to break an arm while cranking his automobile. A few days later a friend encountered him on the street and started to sympathize with him because of his trouble. The man with a broken arm sat up in his seat and eyed his friend closely.

"Why should I worry?" he inquired. "Your accident," said the astonished sympathizer.

"Say," confided the injured one, "I haven't any holler coming on that score. Do you know, just a few days before I broke my arm I took out an accident policy that pays me $25 a week. I hire a chauffeur now for $15. That leaves me $10 every week with which to buy gasoline for the car. Not so bad, eh?"

Such is Life.

"A newspaper dispatch states that a married woman with a family was struck by a train and when she opened her eyes she thought she was a young girl again."

"I hope that dispatch won't be widely read."

"Why not?"

"It may be necessary to hire guards to keep married women off railroad tracks."

As a special feature of the Tuberculosis Day campaign, December 7th, The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis will urge clergymen in all parts of the United States to denounce fake consumption cures from their pulpits.

Millions of dollars are spent by church members and others on valueless remedies of this character, according to the association's records. Literature showing in detail the methods of fake cure vendors will be sent on request to any clergyman by The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, 105 East 22nd Street, New York City.

State Sale of Christmas Seals.

Red Cross Christmas seals which are issued annually by the American Red Cross Society, and for sale during December, to provide funds for the anti-tuberculosis crusade, will be sold throughout Kentucky this year. Mr. Ray C. Risley, of Frankfort, is the General Manager for the State sale.

In communities where there are active anti-tuberculosis societies, supporting nurses or doing educational work, the local sale is managed by that society, which will receive 85 per cent of the proceeds. After the expenses of the sale have been paid, any balance remaining will be held in trust by the Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission, and spent by them in whatever way promises to yield the best results. Such funds may be used to establish open air schools, pay the salary of a visiting nurse for a county, or distribute to consumptives instructions in regard to home cure for the disease.

The sale in Kentucky was small last year. This year the Commission hopes to dispose of 1,500,000 seals.

Nearly 600,000 members of the Young Men's Christian Association of the United States, including several thousand members of the allied health leagues, hundreds of physical doctors and 345,000 members of the physical departments will be urged to co-operate in the Tuberculosis Day campaign during the week of December the 7th, according to announcement made today from the headquarters of this movement in New York.

The U. D. C. Convention will meet in New Orleans from Nov. 11 to 16 and on the latter date there will be a trip to Panama lasting until Dec. 2. About 90 of the delegates have arranged to go.

GUINEA-PIG NATURAL FOOD

Writer Finds It Hard to Understand Why It Is Not More Generally Used by Man.

Why not eat guinea-pig? And why not rear guinea-pigs for the provision market? These are perfectly serious questions. The guinea-pig (which is not a pig at all, but a rodent related to the rabbits, and which does not come from Guinea, but from South America) is as edible as a hare or a squirrel—a little bundle of fat, perfectly wholesome flesh. It is small, to be sure, but so are several other game animals that we seek for the table; a full-grown one will weigh nearly two pounds, dressed.

The animal, which is really a cavy, is nice in its habits, and feeds wholly on grain and green vegetables. It is not subject to the internal parasites, such as tapeworms, that afflict so many rabbits, and its flesh tastes much like that of a squirrel. Its relatives, the rock-cavy, the agouti and the capybara, are highly esteemed in South America.

When the Spaniards conquered Peru they found the ancestors of our pet cavy an ordinary and favorite food. The natives prepared them much as we do a sucking pig, by scalding and scraping off the hair, and then roasting or baking the carcass whole. European travelers since have found the meat excellent when thus baked or roasted, when made into stews, or served in a curry. It is best when the animal is about a year old. Guinea-pigs are easily and cheaply reared, increase rapidly, and could readily be furnished by the thousand to town markets, or kept to serve the home table. It is a waste of opportunity not to make use of the animal for food.—Youth's Companion.

VARIABLE WEATHER.

A chilled and uncomfortable traveler, waiting for his train on the shelterless, wind-swept platform of the junction, accosted a native of the town.

"Say, my friend," the traveler growled, "does the wind blow this way all the time?"

"No," replied the native; "sometimes it turns round and blows the other way."—Youth's Companion.

MISTAKEN KINDNESS.

"So your uncle paid your debts; that was very kind of him."

"Humph! I don't think so. He might have given me the cash and let me pay them."

"What difference would that have made?"

"It would have re-established my credit."—Boston Advertiser.

PLEASANT ADDITION TO TABLE

Okra One of the Very Best of the Vegetables That May Be Made Into a Salad.

There never was a time when so many vegetables and fruits of other latitudes are finding their way to our markets. Improved transportation facilities and increased demand for new foods has brought the foods of other tables within the reach of our own.

Okra was once considered solely a southern product limited to creole and Louisiana zones. But now we see the green, attractive pods in many markets, selling at five cents for two or three, and cheaper in large quantities.

A northern woman was pleasantly surprised to find that okra would grow in our latitudes, and she was delighted with the tall hollyhock-like plant with large cream flowers, and found that she could use the pods in many ways.

For a salad she took the very small green pods, boiled them until tender, chilled them and served on lettuce with French dressing. She added them to soup in the proportion of two cups of okra to four quarts of water, using meat and onion, salt and pepper, and sometimes tomatoes.

The famous "chicken gumbo" is made with a fricasseed chicken, to which is added the okra sliced crosswise, tomatoes, slices of ham, thyme, parsley, with a rich gravy.

Okra combines particularly well with rice and tomatoes, and a delicious dish can be made by adding stewed okra and tomatoes to boiled rice, and either serving at once or baking in a deep dish.

The creole cooks say that okra should never be cooked in any copper, brass or iron vessel, as the metal will be absorbed and the pods become discolored. Use only agate or porcelain.

While okra does not contain any particular food element in quantity, it has the peculiar muscilaginous quality given to only a few plants, and is therefore at its best in soups and sauces which have a meat flavor. It is also cooling, and so can be classed as an addition to our table salads.—Philadelphia Record.

Baked Ham.

Cover your ham with cold water and let it simmer gently, just long enough to loosen the skin so that it can be pulled off; this will probably require from two to three hours, according to the size of the ham. When skinned place in a dripping pan in the oven, pour over it a cupful of vinegar and one of hot water, in which dissolve a teaspoonful of English mustard. Bake slowly, basting with the liquid every few minutes for two hours. Then cover the ham all over to the depth of one inch with coarse brown sugar and do not baste again until the sugar has formed a thick crust, which it will soon do in a slow oven. Let it remain in a full hour after covering with sugar until it becomes a rich golden brown. When done drain from the liquor in the pan and put on a dish to cool. When cool, but not cold, press by turning a flat dish on top. The pressing makes it cut firmly.

Raised Doughnuts.

One pint of milk scalded, one-half cupful of sugar, flour to make a soft dough, two eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, one heaping tablespoonful butter, one yeast cake. Put the butter in the scalded milk, cool, add the yeast, sugar and flour, heat well and let stand over night. In the morning beat the eggs, stir them into the butter and flour to make a soft dough, knead lightly and set to rise. When light take out half the dough, spread on making board and cut out. Spread a clean breadcloth on the table and sprinkle lightly with flour. Put the doughnuts on this cover and let stand one-half hour. Fry in boiling fat. Do not stick a fork in them.

Wash That Sticks.

In making whitewash that will not scale off, I find the following very good, writes a contributor to the Washington Herald. Dissolve glue in hot water, and add in the proportion of a pint of water to four gallons of whitewash; or dissolve an ounce of gum arabic in a pint of boiling water and stir in, observing the same proportions. Before applying this or any other wash, scrape the wall clean and smooth. Another good method is to add ultramarine glue, as it gives a pretty tint. A little salt added to the whitewash is very good; it prevents it from rubbing off.

Cooking Keynotes.

Leftovers of fish can be safely kept in the refrigerator by putting them in a fruit jar with rubber and sealing them tightly.

A wire basket is a good thing to keep the eggs for cooking in, as one can see how many eggs are on hand without taking the basket off the pantry shelf.

A cheap and durable toaster for a gas stove is a piece of sheet iron. Over this a five-cent wire toaster can be used without danger of burning or blackening the bread.

Sour Cream Cake.

Beat two eggs well, then add one cup of sugar and beat again. In another bowl dissolve one-half teaspoon of soda in one cup of sour milk. In still another bowl or pan put 1 1/2 cups of flour and one-half teaspoon of baking powder, thoroughly sifted together. Stir these all together, add a tablespoon of melted butter and one-half a teaspoon of vanilla or lemon. Beat well. This makes a good layer cake, also. It is nice eaten warm.

OLD HATS PUT TO GOOD USE

Discarded Headwear Finally Finds Up in Homes for the Aged and Unfortunate.

A man wearing a derby hat went into a New York hat store the other day to purchase a hat. When he had selected one that suited him he handed the clerk the money for the new hat, together with the derby.

"Here, take this," said the purchaser. "I have some bundles to carry home and I do not want to add anything to my burden. Give me a check and I will call in for the hat on Monday."

The clerk gave a check to the man and then remarked to a customer who had overheard the conversation:

"He will never return for that old hat. It is so old that he wouldn't be bothered carrying it home, so he decided to leave it here, excusing his act by declaring that he had other bundles to carry. Giving him a check was just a mere formality; that's why we made up the checks out of cheap material."

"Men must leave a large number of old hats here in a season?" inquired the customer.

"Yes, they do," responded the clerk, "but we have a method of disposing of them."

"How?" inquired the interested customer.

"Well, we hold all the hats left us until the end of the season. Then we send them to old men's homes, where there is always a demand for such headgear. The officers of the institutions divide the old hats among the inmates, who are delighted to get them. Isn't that a better plan than throwing them in the waste heap?"

SHIRK THEIR NATURAL DUTIES

Females of Many Species Leave to Their Mates the Work of Rearing the Young.

It is the male stickleback who builds the nest; then goes out and drives the female in to lay her eggs; then straightway drives her out to prevent her eating them; then puts himself on guard to protect them from their other enemies, until the young shall hatch and be able to swim away by themselves, declares a writer in the Atlantic Monthly.

It is the male toadfish (Batrachus Tan) that crawls into the nesthole and takes charge of the numerous family. He may dig the hole, too, as the male stickleback builds the nest. I do not know as to that. But I do know that I once raised a stone in the edge of the tide along the shore of Naushon island in Buzzard's bay, to find its under surface covered with round, droplike, amber eggs, and in the shallow cavity beneath, an old male toadfish, slimy and croaking, and with a countenance ugly enough to tie a prowling eel into a hard knot. I have done this scores of times. The female deposits the eggs, glues them fast with much nicety to the under surface of the rock, as a female might, and finishes her work. Departing at once she leaves the coming brood to the care of the male, who from this time, without relief or even food in all probability, assumes the role and all the responsibilities of mother.

Reading.

"Our bodies are what we eat," asserts an evening newspaper, and continues: "Our minds are what we read."

An exaggeration like this may serve to emphasize the importance of eating wholesome food and reading clean books. Scientifically, it is valueless. Mastication and digestion are processes as essential to getting the full value out of literature, as they are to getting the full value out of dinner. A thoughtful man benefits more largely from reading James Oppenheim or Leonard Merrick than a fool does from reading Meredith and Shakespeare. A discriminating mind puts one issue of this paper to a better use than a slovenly mind can do with 75 monthly magazines. We don't need to read more half so much as we need to read more intelligently.

Settled Knotty Law Point.

Law Notes reports a case before a justice of the peace in Oklahoma City in which opposing counsel were engaged in a spirited argument as to whether a certain objection to the introduction of testimony should be sustained by the justice. The justice tried to induce the attorneys to come to an agreement on the question, and one of them replied that it was impossible and insisted that the court rule on the objection. The question was then repeated to the witness, and the justice, after pondering the matter for some time, turned to the objecting attorney and said, "To save further argument I will let the witness answer the question, but I will not consider his answer."

Individualism.

A condition of society that will permit the individual to acquire the full measure of reward for labor, be it done with brain or brawn; that will restrain the strong from impinging on the weak; that will nurture a kindly humanity for the helpless and afflicted; that will not coddle in indolence the degenerate progeny of worthy parents; that will assure to the thrifty the necessities and a fair share of the pleasures of life, and yet permit of an accumulation to this end; and that they may provide for themselves and their dear ones against the time of the lengthening shadows, when the day's work shall have been done.—John B. Miller.

MINED IN PRIMITIVE MANNER

Plumbago, First of Ceylon's Mineral Products, Wrested From the Earth
Mainly by Manual Labor.

Plumbago, Ceylon's most important mineral product, is known all over the world for its luster, lubricating, polishing and binding qualities. The United States is the chief consumer. In appearance it is a strong, black crystalline, and in this respect it differs from the gray-ish lead which is found in young rock in America. There are now about one thousand plumbago mines in Ceylon, including all the shallow pits, open works and deep mines.
The depth varies from a few yards to as much as 700 feet. Most of the mines are worked by natives, the only important one controlled by Europeans being the Medapola. At the majority of the mines the only machinery used is the "dabare." This consists of a long wooden barrel with handles at each end. Round this a rope is given two or three turns and a bucket fastened to each end. It is worked by seven or eight men turning the handle.

REASON FOR HIS IGNORANCE

Being Away From Home at the Time,
How Was Man to Know Why
His Wife Left Him?

The young rector of an Episcopal church in Alabama, an Englishman, by the way, was asked recently to officiate at the wedding of a negro couple on a nearby plantation. He consented, but thought he would beforehand learn something about the contracting parties, so he said to the prospective groom:

"Have you ever been married before?"

"Yes, sir," said the negro.

The alacrity of the response "put a crimp" in the rector, so to speak, and he asked with some uneasiness:

"Your wife is dead, is she not?"

"Naw, sah," was the unexpected reply, "she in Norf Ca'lina."

"Why did she leave you?" then asked the rector.

"I can't ezzactly tell you, sah," said the negro. "Yuh see, I wuz erway from home at de time, an' I ain't been back dere since."

WOULD HAVE BURNED "WITCH."

A story of witch burning has just come to light in the courts of Florence, Italy. Some time ago an old woman named Faustina Bulli, who had the reputation in the town of Figlini of being a sorceress, considered herself insulted by a young woman and cursed her. "A curse upon your eyes," she cried, and when the girl shortly afterward became blind her parents dragged the "witch" to a kiln to burn her alive.
Having fired the kiln, the avengers poured petrol on the woman's feet and set fire to them before casting her in. The world-be murderers fled, however, without waiting to see if success attended their designs, and Bulli managed to effect her escape from the kiln. The woman has fully recovered.

SCULPTURE IN OLD TEMPLE.

Interesting discoveries have been made at Cortina in Crete by an Italian party headed by Professor Halb-herr. These include a temple to Egyptian divinities, one of the archtraves bearing a dedication by Fla-via Philura. In a cell in the building were found marble statues of Jupiter, Serapis, Isis and Mercury, the one of Serapis being exceptionally fine; also fragments of a colossal statue of a woman and a bust of a woman, which are thought to be those of the foundress of the temple.

MIX-UP.

"Here's a queer confusion in these old sayings."

"What's that?"

"If love is blind, how can there be love at first sight?"

NOT FRESH.

Patience—She keeps her furs in cold storage in the summer.

Patrice—I always thought they were nothing but cold-storage furs she wore.

TIDAL WAVE DUE.

"Come farther away from the water's edge, Algie."

"Why, mother?"

"A fat woman is wading out."

ITS SPECIES.

"I suppose these gambling stakes are a sort of mineral affair."

"How do you make that out?"

"Aren't they ante-money?"

PALM AWARDED TO DELMAS

His Celebrated Sentence Used in the Thaw Case Outdoes That Written by Ruskin.

The English papers are running a competition in the citation of long sentences—famous long sentences, from the works of great writers. It is claimed that this one from Ruskin holds the record up to date:

"If it be true—and it can scarcely be disputed—that nothing has been for centuries consecrated by public admiration, without possessing in a high degree some kind of sterling excellence, it is not because the average intellect and feeling of the majority of the public are competent in any way to distinguish what is really excellent, but because all erroneous opinion is inconsistent, and all ungrounded opinion transitory;
so that while the fancies and feelings which deny deserved honor and award what is undue have neither root nor strength sufficient to maintain consistent testimony for a length of time, the opinions formed on right grounds by those few who are in reality competent judges, being necessarily stable, communicate themselves gradually from mind to mind, descending lower as they extend wider, until they leaven the whole lump and rule by absolute authority, even where the grounds and reasons for them cannot be understood, and on this, the gradual victory of what is consistent over what is vacillating, depends the reputation of all that is highest in art and literature."

But this certainly cannot be the longest sentence on record. It is a mere laconicism, a phraseological baby, compared with the celebrated "hypothetical question" which was submitted to experts by Counsel
Delmás in the Thaw murder trial.

SAD EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Henpeck—Marriage is only a lottery.

Mr. Henpeck—I guess that's why it's a failure, too. You always lose in a lottery.

FISH PIES NOT POPULAR.

And, speaking of fish pies, how is it that they are no longer popular?
Not so many years ago they could be bought at shops, steaming hot and with a surfeit of gravy. There was a favorite and famous eel pie shop in Fleet street, near St. Dunstan's church, that youthful fancy associated with the story of Sweeney Todd, the mysterious barber. Now the eel pie shop is almost as rare as the a la mode beef shop of the peripatetic emporium of sheep's trotters.—London Chronicle.

OFF TO THE BALL GAME.

The following sign was posted at the opening of the baseball season in the office of the Chicago postmaster: "Special Notice—All requests for leave of absence owing to funerals, weddings, lame back, house cleaning, sore throat, headache, indigestion, etc., must be handed in not later than 10:00 a. m. on the day of the game."

HIS TRADE.

"That man certainly does get on my nerves."

"Is he an egotist?"

"No; he's my dentist."

OFTEN SO.

"Have you much difficulty in learning French?"

"Oh, yes; my difficulty is pronounced."

THE METHOD.

"How on earth can these fool theorists weigh souls?"

"I suppose they do it by using a spirit level."

NATURALLY.

"There was a still alarm for that fire."

"Just the right kind of an alarm for the fire. It was in a speak-easy."

Rosy as a Girl.

Summit, N. C.—In a letter received from this place, Mr. J. W. Church, the notary public, says: "My wife had been ailing for nearly 12 years, from female ailments, and at times, was unable to leave the house. She suffered agony with her side and back. We tried physicians for years, without relief. After these treatments all failed, she took Cardui, and gained in weight at once. Now she is red and rosy as a school girl." Cardui, is a tonic for women, has brought remarkable results. It relieves pain and misery and is the ideal tonic for young and old. Try it. At all druggists.—

WHEN HIS APPETITE FAILED

Realization of Payment to Be Made Left John Henry Without Desire for the Pheasant.

They were speaking of the wonderful days of courtship when he willingly makes a million sacrifices to appear like great wealth in the dear one's beautiful eyes. A merry chuckle on the part of Gov. Locke Craig of North Carolina, who was one of the dinner party. He said he was reminded of the case of John Henry.

John Henry, according to the governor, took the darling of his heart to a cafe where it is expensive to eat. The dear one had said she wasn't hungry, so the young lover thought he would escape with no greater blow than an ice cream ticket.

But, alas! Likewise woe! It was a pheasant that the dear one ordered, with fixings to match. All that John Henry could do was to watch her and suffer.

"Jackey, dear," she sweetly remarked, diving into the luscious bird, "you are not eating a bit of this pheasant. Won't you have some?"

"No, darling," responded John Henry. "I have had all that I want."

"All that you want, dear!" exclaimed the young woman, showing great surprise. "Why, you haven't had any!"

"Yes, I have, sweet," answered John Henry, with something akin to a soulful sigh. "The waiter just handed me the bill."

POLISH JEW HELD IN HONOR

Warsaw Policeman Gets Remarkable Recognition From All Classes of the People.

An account of a jubilee celebration in honor of a Jewish policeman of Warsaw, Poland, is contained in the American Hebrew. The celebration was in honor of fifty years' service by Doruch Yablonsky, an ex-guard-in 1863 he was appointed constable in the Polish capital by the viceroy, Grand Duke Constantine, who took into consideration his brilliant conduct in the Crimean war, for which he was decorated with a medal. Yablonsky, who is now the only Jew on the Warsaw police force, performed the duties of a constable for 43 years, until eight years ago, when he was transferred to the clerical department.

He is now eighty-eight years old, and holds several decorations. The entire police force joined in the jubilee celebration, and Yablonsky was the object of hearty praise and congratulations. He received 100 rubles from the chief of police, a watch from his colleagues and a warm message from the regiment of guards in which he served at the siege of Sebastopol. In religion Yablonsky holds orthodox views, and he has a special permit to attend synagogue services on Saturdays and festivals.

Satisfied.

But that it would cost too much to print it, the landlady would probably include this story in her advertisement every time she needs boarders. In answer to an advertisement that was published before the story happened, she received as "paying guests" a lady and gentleman and little girl who had come down in the world.

Their descent was comparatively recent, and the lady still mourned departed grandeur. She had hopes of getting some of it back, however, and to that end she instructed the little girl to pray, on the night of their arrival at the boarding house, that God would soon give them their pretty home again.

The child opened her eyes and looked around the comfortably furnished room.

"I don't see anything the matter with this," she said.

Pitching Pals.

Mathewson and McGinnity were great chums throughout their years of association on the New York team. Sometimes, with one of them in the box and going badly, the other would start from the bench with:

"Get out of there, Matty! You're rotten! Let me show 'em something."

The following rejoinder:
"All right, Joe. Come on in. I hope they knock you full of holes." Then, tossing the ball to his pal, he would start for the clubhouse.

McGraw left the pitching problem largely to these wise old foxes. "With them working together so well, no wonder we win," was a favorite comment of his.—Popular Magazine.

Rebuke a Purse-Proud Traveler.

Tom McNeal tells several stories about Colonel Johnson, the landlord of the City hotel in Holton. One of them is this: A somewhat dudsish traveling man came into the hotel and asked for a cigar. The colonel opened a cigar case and showed the drummer his five and ten-cent brands, but the dudsish drummer wasn't satisfied. "Don't you keep some good cigars here, such as a gentleman wants to smoke, about three for a dollar?" "Yes," said the colonel impressively, "we keep cigars here for gentlemen to smoke, but we don't keep cigars for fools."—Kansas City Star.

Nails Were Meant to Last.

F. J. Haskins of North Adams, Mass., has a collection of hand-made nails that were taken from an old house. The nails are all made of steel and are practically as good as when first driven into the wood. They are crude in shape and size and many of them have heads on only one side of the shaft. The nails have been in the building for forty years.

JAMES BREATHITT, JR.

Spoke to Large Crowd At Court House Yesterday.

The farmers were addressed by James Breathitt, Jr., yesterday on the issue of the campaign, but the greater portion of his time was devoted to the public road question, the most important of all to the farmers, especially the northern part of the county. Mr. Breathitt impressed upon his hearers that a Democratic Fiscal Court has done more in building pikes and improving roads in the past four years than has ever been done before. And he emphasized the fact that no matter how the election goes today, that during the coming four years what is done in pike building and road improving will be the work of a Democratic Fiscal Court. Mr. Breathitt spoke to a full house.

Moving Begun.

Irving Roseborough, who has been living in the Wilgus house on South Main, began moving yesterday to Miss Lottie Gunn's new house at Main street and Alumnae Avenue. Mr. C. E. Woodruff, Manager of the telephone company, will move from his present location on West Fifteenth street, to the house vacated by Mr. Roseborough.

Mr. John H. Bell and Dr. D. E. Bell left last night for a trip to North Carolina.

OUTLAW IN THE CANAL ZONE

Relentless War Upon the Mosquito
Seems to Have Accomplished
Some Good Results.

Almost as important in the work of building the Panama canal as the blue-eyed czar at Culebra (by which title Mr. Harry A. Franck, in "Zone Policeman 88," distinguishes Colonel Goethals) was Colonel Gorgas, who made and kept the zone a healthy place.

Among the colonel's big tasks was the extermination of the mosquito. How thoroughly he did his work is humorously indicated by a letter that Mr. Franck quotes:

"Gatun, — 25, 1912.

"Dear Colonel: I am writing to call your attention to a gross violation of Sanitary Ordinance No. 3621, to an apparent loophole in your otherwise excellent department. The circumstances are as follows:

"On the evening of — 24, as I was sitting at the roadside between Gatun and New Gatun (some 63 paces beyond house No. 226), there appeared a mosquito, which buzzed openly for some time about my ears. It was probably merely a male of the species, as it showed no tendency to bite; but a mosquito nevertheless. I trust you will take fitting measures to punish so bold and insolent a violation of the rulers of your department. I am, sir, very truly yours,

"MRS. HENRY PECK.

"P. S.—The mosquito can be easily recognized by a peculiarly triumphant, defiant note in his song."—Youth's Companion.

EGYPTIAN MADE FIRST MAP

Date Is Given as About 560 B. C., and the Work Was Necessarily of the Crudest.

Anaximander, a pupil of Thales, about 560 B. C., sketched the first map. It was in the form of a disk. Democritus of Abdera, about 100 years after, with a wider range of knowledge, drew a new map, giving the world an oblong form, showing extension east and west, rather than north and south. The first application of astronomy to geography was made by Pytheas of Marseilles, about 326 B. C., he having made the first observation of latitude. Hipparchus of Nicaea, 162 B. C., first determined latitude and longitude. Marinus of Tyre, about 150 B. C., was the first to make use of Hipparchus' teachings in representing the countries of the world. Claudius Ptolemy of Pesusium, Egypt, about 162 A. D., was in reality the first scientific map maker. Notwithstanding errors in boundaries and locations, the method was correct. The Romans contributed nothing to mapmaking. No improvement was made in it from the time of Ptolemy until the thirteenth century, when a map appeared in Italy which was constructed with the aid of a compass.

Correct!

It is incorrect to speak of the careless pedestrian in the present tense. The careless pedestrian is dead and buried.—St. Louis Republic.

JAMES INTERCEDES WITH BRYAN FOR POST WHEELER

Secretary Promises Personal Hearing Before Passing On Investigation.

Washington, Nov. 2 — Senator Ollie James Friday called on Secretary of State Bryan at the State Department and asked in behalf of Mrs. Post Wheeler that she and her husband be given a personal hearing by Mr. Bryan before he passes on the investigation which has been made of Mr. Wheeler's conduct as secretary of the United States Embassy at Rome. Mrs. Wheeler is well known by her maiden name of Hallie Ermine Rives, under which she has written many popular novels and short stories. She was born and reared in Christian county, Kentucky. Mr. Bryan promised to do what Mr. James asked.

Senator James saw Mr. Bryan at the personal solicitation of Mrs. Wheeler, who called to see him. The Senator also received a telegram today from her father, Stephen T. Rives, of Amherst Va., and formerly of Kentucky, asking that he do what he could in behalf of Mr. Wheeler.

REVIVAL

At First Baptist Church Grows
in Interest.

The revival at the Baptist church will continue all the week. Dr. Dew spoke to the Sunday school for a few minutes Sunday morning and preached at 11 o'clock, to men only at 3 p. m. and to another overflow crowd at 7:30 p. m. The meeting is growing in interest and there are additions to the church every day.

Weather For This Week.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Clear skies and moderate temperatures are promised by the weather bureau to practically the entire country for the next few days.

"With the exception of a little rain and snow early in the week over the extreme northwest and the middle and Southern districts from the Rocky Mountains westward," said the weekly bulletin tonight, "generally fair weather will prevail over the country until the middle of the week, when another disturbance will appear over the far northwest bringing with it some rain and snow that probably will extend eastward over the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys and the greater portion of the lake region by the end of the week, mostly as rain.

Better be careful about paying bills over $3,000. You may be liable to the government as a withholding agent for one per cent due by the man collecting the bill for income tax. And you had better ask the collector if he is married and living with his wife, as that makes $1,000 difference.
